CLEVER BOXING WILL BE SEEN AT SCHOFIELD THIS EVENING

Good Glove Bouts Carded for Settlement at Cavalry-Artillery
Amusement Hall

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Feb. 12.—The cavalry-artillery hall tonight will be the scene of some clever boxing bouts in which many of the best known glove artists of the Schofield garrison will participate. There will be no purses nor prizes and none of the bouts will go more than four rounds, but it is expected that every one of the eight matches will carry some of the thrills of a real fight.

The entertainment is being given by the 1st Field Artillery. There will be no charge for admission and as many will be welcome as can crowd into the hall.

Probably the best known name on the program is Billy Neumann, who is the hero of many battles in the ring and claims the middleweight championship of the Atlantic coast. If the federal laws were not so stringent there is no doubt but what he would soon lay claim to the middleweight championship of Hawaii. He has appeared but once before in the ring at Schofield. At the last his fight about a year ago he went eight rounds with Carlin. He had only been at the post a short time and was not in training. He was called upon to substitute for Bud Walters, who was to have met Carlin. His performance made for him a multitude of friends and admirers. Kid West, who will box Neumann tonight, is reputed to be a fast and furious man in the ring, and is expected to force Neumann to show his strongest cards.

Bobby Moore and Tony Signaigo have been seen together before and can put up as fast a four-round contest as the most critical fan could wish to see. Both are from New York city. At Madison Square Garden in 1915 Moore won the amateur bantam championship of the Atlantic coast.

There are 12 other fast boxers who will be introduced tonight. The program will be as follows:

1. Hoss Hoey (122) vs. Andy Berger (122), three rounds.
2. Frank Burns (130) vs. John Orel (130), four rounds.

BILLY NEUMANN.

3. George Welsh (122) vs. Charles Cooper (120), four rounds.
4. Sam Williams (140) vs. Bert Davis (140), three rounds.
5. London Johnson (139) vs. Tony Dunbeck (138), four rounds.
6. Frank Johnson (150) vs. Vincent Miccio (160), four rounds.
7. Bobby Moore (130) vs. Tony Signaigo (130), four rounds.
8. Billy Neumann (158) vs. Kid West (160), four rounds.

HAWAII SWIMMERS WON'T COMPETE IN CHILL WATERS OF 'FRISCO BAY

An ultimatum has been handed to the San Francisco exposition management by the Honolulu swimmers that they will not participate if the meet is held in the cold waters of the bay, according to news from San Francisco yesterday. The Oakland Enquirer of February 3 says:

"Word was received yesterday by the athletic committee of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition that the Hawaiian swimmers whose entry into the exposition aquatic events was looked forward to as a strong stimulant for interest in those events, would refuse to swim in competition here during the fair if the contests were held in the open waters of the bay."

The insistence of the Hawaiians on the meets being held in indoor water if they were to take part, is based on matters of temperature, the islanders being used to the balmy waters of the mid-Pacific, maintaining that they would freeze up in the bearings and swim at a decided disadvantage in competition with men accustomed to the chilly waters of San Francisco bay.

With the development of this phase of the Hawaiian entry situation, it also became known that several eastern swimmers of note, individuals and teams, have taken the same stand. They do not like the temperature of the water of San Francisco bay, where it was planned to hold the swimming races.

"Inasmuch as the participation of such men as Duke Kahanamoku of Hawaii, world's champion swimmer, and others of the Hawaiian constellation and of prominent swimmers of the East is almost absolutely necessary to the stirring up of top interest in these events among exposition visitors, the committee will probably lend ear to the ultimatum from these stars of the bays."

JUJITSU WRESTLERS STAGE EXCITING BOUTS AT ASAHI THEATER

Two dozen agile Japanese wrestlers tumbled about on the stage of the Asahi theater last night in an exciting exhibition of Jujitsu. The floor of the house was filled and on the stage were two score invited hoaxes.

The wrestling started at 7:30 and the bouts were pulled off in rapid succession until 10:30. Winners were given rubbing towels as prizes. Only two divisions of the tournament were finished. These were won by Ikeda Ono and O. Omura. A third was a draw between Fujii and Fujiwara and will be fought off tonight. The rest of the championships will be settled to night.

As an added attraction an exhibition of American wrestling was given by Sam and Ed Searle. It was warmly applauded by the Japanese and several

BERETANIA WINS DOUBLE-HEADER FROM KOREANS

Yesterday afternoon the Beretania boys journeyed to the Korean grounds and by good, hard, consistent playing captured a double header. Both games were cleanly played and very interesting, no time being wasted in any sort of kicking. The pitching on both sides was about equal but Beretania was way ahead the best with the stick and this was the reason of their double victory.

The first game was between the two Junior teams and Beretania by heavy stick work in the second and some fine base running piled up a seven-run lead which lasting after inning they increased until the final score was Beretania 34, Korean 12.

James Chi was the cleanup man of the afternoon, getting on base seven times out of eight times up and scoring six runs. Twice he received a free pass and the other five times reached the bases by good, clean hitting. Kin Hin and Ah Chong also scored five runs each. Yo Kim, for the Koreans, did the best stick work, making five hits out of five times to the bat and scoring four runs. Y. O. Kang came next with three hits and three runs.

Umpires—K. S. Balk and A. M. Olson.

The Midget game was lost in a measure by the wildness of the Korean pitcher, who allowed seven runs to be scored on wild pitches when men were on second and third. On the other hand he had plenty of speed, fielded his position in fine shape and led his team in batting and run getting. The fielding of both teams in the second game showed lots of room for improvement and will get older. Overanxiety on the part of players of both sides was responsible for several costly errors. Little Charley Kang caught a good game for the Koreans and shared batting honors with his pitcher, W. Kong.

Chilly was Beretania's best batter, getting on base every time up and scoring four runs. Muck Sung and Ah Fong also scored four runs each. The marked feature of this game was the speed both teams showed in hurrying to their positions after their turn at bat and this alone put lots of extra pep into the game.

complimentary prizes were given the Searles.
The bouts were directed by S. Teishima, president, and Motto Nishikawa, secretary, of the Japanese Jujitsu Club. They will be continued to night.

Stallings Tells How the Braves Won Big Game of World's Series

By GEORGE T. STALLINGS.

Much has been written and said about the breaks of ball games and I want to go on record as saying that most ball games are won by a manager taking advantage of the break, but never was a contest played in which a team worked harder to get the percentage than my club did in the third battle of the world's series. The hardest run ever scored was the one that the Braves made in the tenth inning of the third contest, which tied it up.

As I have said in all these articles, our spirit swept the Athletics off their feet and from the first my little ball club showed Mack's champions were not afraid of them. Their batting averages on their record. But the inning which absolutely broke out opponents' hearts and made our club sure of victory was that tenth. I don't believe it has ever been duplicated. After we had finally won the contest I went into the clubhouse and found my players shouting:

"Hurrah for the Champions!"
"Hurrah for the next world's champions!"

They knew that the series was theirs. Since then I have been told by an American league ball player who visited the clubhouse of the Athletics after their defeat that the boys as plainly showed that they realized they were beaten as my boys did that they had won. Among themselves they were grumbling and their heads were hanging.

In their half of the tenth inning the Athletics made two runs and it looked to every one on the field as if Mack's team was finally to hang up a victory—that is, to every one except the members of our little ball club. The Philadelphia team earned one of those runs. The other slipped across the plate when Evers let his head drop after losing a chance to cut the run off because the ball took a bad bound, could not be fielded and hit him on the chest. Another run slipped over them and Mack's club had a lead of two. When Johnny came to the bench every man on the Boston team walked over and spoke to him.

"Never mind," they said, one after another. "We've got three more games to win it in. You've done enough for this ball club to afford to kick one away once in a while." But not a man on the team conceded defeat. The substitutes, who had not taken any active part in the actual playing, started to show what they were worth to the club by tearing up and down the bench and shouting their lungs out. Every one was moving on that bench. We intended to make it just as difficult as we could for the Athletics to hold that lead. Pep Won Crucial Game.

Then Hank Gowdy, the castoff of the Giants, came up to the plate and busted one for a home run. That was just a plain slam, but, believe me, it took some of the wind out of the Athletics. They then realized that the two-run lead was not a safe one. The tying run was at the plate, as we express it in baseball. It means that the man who would tie the score if he got around the bases was at the bat. This was the hardest one ever pushed around. Every man on our club was working for it, working his heart out, whether he was in the coaching box, at the bat or on the bench.

Any one who saw the game will never forget the spirit. "Rabbit" Maraville was on the coaching lines at first base, running wild. Every man on the bench was waving a sweater or a mackinaw and saying something except me. I just sat tight. It was the typical break of a ball game, only bigger. It is useless to recite here just how that run was made, since it has been told so often. I am only glad that Evers' hit was one of the big factors in getting it. But we worked for every foot that runner moved around the bases, and each move was carefully thought out. When we finally got it we knew that the game and the championship would be ours. The winning run was only a matter of time. That is why I found my players singing in the clubhouse afterward and speaking of themselves as the next world's champions. We all knew it then, and so did the Athletics. Stallings Proud of Gowdy.

With the superb pitching, Gowdy's catching stands out. It was the big feature of the series, although I expected it of Hank, for I knew better than any one what he could do. Before the series, in fact, on the day after we had clinched the National league pennant, I got to talking to Christy Mathewson out at the Polo grounds where we were playing our farewell series with the Giants.

"What is Gowdy going to do for you, George?" Matty asked me. "I'll make you a bet right now," I replied, "that he outthinks, outcatches and outthrows Schang in the series." Matty did not make the bet, but he would have lost it if he had. You see, I knew something of Schang, for he had worked on my club when I had been the manager in Buffalo. Personally, he is one of the finest fellows that ever put on the chest protector and mask. But, as I have implied before in this story, he cannot hit a slow ball with a fish net. The only fast one he got within reach in the series he bunched over third for two bags. That was one that Bill James threw him. When a man is not hitting as he should it always hurts the rest of his game, and Schang did not catch as well as he was expected to. We played on every weakness we knew. We showed him spirit from the first and nothing but spirit made that tough run in the tenth inning possible.

During the series, while we were talking Gowdy, it was reported that some young woman had promised to marry "Hank" if our club won Gowdy has asked me to deny this.

STAR-BULLETINS IN CELEBRATION OF CHAMPIONSHIP

Last night in the Kakaako hall the members of the Star-Bulletin indoor baseball champions and the entire Star-Bulletin Club turned out to celebrate the recent winning of the indoor baseball championship. The evening's program was opened with an address by Mr. Robley who gave a brief sketch of the organization of the club and its team's record.

He pointed out the rapid growth, a general broadening of interest then a few in favor of entering an indoor team representing the Star-Bulletin in the last league race. Most thought it would be foolish figuring they would have no chance, he said. Objections being overcome, a team was put in the field. The first two out of the first three games were lost. The knocker were right on the job with the "I told you so" stuff. Then a general bracing, a more determined effort, team work developed, knocking and knockers converted into boosting and boosters. The team then began its upward climb. Fourth place, then third and another hard battle and then second. Second place and then a chance at the league leaders. Much chance. They were granted as much as the Boston Braves were before the last world's series and they surprised everyone by winning a great uphill fight and a championship just as the Braves did a few months ago.

Mr. Bruce then read a letter from W. R. Farrington, who because of a pressing engagement was unable to be with the boys. Farrington congratulated the boys on their work and pointed out how the same spirit in their daily work would win them prizes in other fields.

Mr. Godfrey was the next on the program and gave the boys a good straight talk from the shoulder which, judging from the applause, was appreciated. While the refreshments were being served Mr. Robley entertained the boys with a number of humorous stories, then came the eat.

The great assistance that the various members of the Star-Bulletin force have rendered from time to time has played no small part in the present work now being accomplished in the boys' club work in general, according to Mr. Robley, who is in charge of this work at the present time.
